

For immediate release:

Crosley Hotshot is indeed, a fine country band. Mix together a little bit of southern fried rock, a little bit of blues and gospel, and a whole lot of great country music, and it all adds up to one of Denver's finest country bands, Crosley Hotshot. Crosley Hotshot was Founded in 2006 by longtime friends David Sayer and Dave Wolfe. While being fairly new to the Colorado country music scene, the band is certainly no stranger to the stage. The six members of the band have many years of combined experience playing in various local bands at nightclubs, honkytonks, bars, country fairs and rodeos all over the Rocky Mountain region. Crosley Hotshot is equally at ease playing gospel songs at a Sunday morning church service as they are cranking out Garth Brooks or Diamond Rio hits Friday nights at your favorite country bar. Two of the members of Crosley Hotshot are also members of the Colorado National Guard and play in the Guard's bands. With multiple talented songwriters, at any given performance you are sure to hear several Crosley Hotshot originals. The band is currently in the process of recording their original songs for their debut CD. If you get the chance, come on out and listen to Crosley Hotshot at one of their shows, and be ready for some great live music and a great night on the town. You won't be disappointed! For more information about the individual members of Crosley Hotshot, please visit their "little slice of life" website: www.crosleyhotshot.com.